Munz-Losch is intrigued with the challenge of making compelling works built from elements that are often misunderstood, ignored, or even despised. Whereas the beauty of the figure draws viewers' initial attention, the details of the work's composition take them on an unexpected journey upon closer examination. Munz-Losch states: "I perceive all of life as a vivid and wild ride, fraught with equal measures of love, sorrow, and wonder; all completely connected in an unspeakably beautiful universe of chaos."
